Experience and Expertise of the organization in the project's subject area

Connectis was involved in several European project that had as their main aim the creation of historic databases. We created and managed databases in many fields about historic topics, for example, the MHM Project and the Routes Project.

Our experience in this kind of projects will be proposed to help all the partners involved in EE-T Project to achieve their aims.

Contributions that can be provided to the project

Connectis will have to carry out the following activities:

- ✓ Development of the project's web site
- ✓ Development of the project portal
- ✓ Technical management and constant update of the web site and portal
- ✓ Technical support to the project
- ✓ Constant uploading of material on the Portal and website

Reasons of involvement in the project

Connectis will assume the role of technical partner in the project and will therefore be responsible for the planning, designing, creation and management of the project website and portal and for managing and customising online platform for the delivery of the training package. Connectis will provide technical management and constant updating of the web site and portal as well as continual technical support throughout all the project's activities. Connectis will also contribute to disseminating the project's outcomes and will participate in the meetings.
